Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed June 5, 2006, with respect to the rejection(s) of claims under 35 USC § 102 have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of U.S. Patent 5,643,921 to Hood et al. As indicated by the applicant, Borgmeier et al. does not teach a tip with means for limiting insertion depth. Hood et al. '921 disclose such a tip for an electrosurgical instrument for use on an eye in figure 22.

Claim Objections

Claim 17 is objected to as unclear for the term "stopping the stop".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1, 2, 4, 6, 7, 8, 10, 12, 13 and 19-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent 6,090,107 to Borgmeier et al. in view of U.S. Patent 5,643,921 to Hood et al. Borgmeier et al. teach an electrosurgical instrument which includes a reusable electrode shaft, a disposable tip and a novel, insulated coupling for removably connecting the disposable tip to the electrode shaft (abstract). A body portion (Fig. 4, # 70) with a detent that acts as a stop (Fig. 4, # 72) receives an electrode assembly inserted into the body. A distal portion of the electrode assembly (Fig. 4, # 50) engages the stop in the body and is shaped to inhibit rotation. The body portion is disclosed as made of plastic (dielectric). The tip and body are coupled to an elongated probe (Fig. 1). The attachment of the tip to the probe is broadly interpreted as adapted to be inserted into a probe. Borgmeier et al. does not teach a tip with a means for limiting insertion depth. Hood et al. '921 disclose a tip for an electrosurgical instrument for use on an eye that includes a portion surrounding the tip (Fig. 22, # 364) that provides a limit for the insertion depth of the tip into a cornea (Fig. 22). It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to use the tip with insertion limiting means as taught by Hood et al. '921 in the invention of Borgmeier et al. as a replaceable tip for a specific application, the application being applying energy to a cornea for which Hood et al. '921 clearly teaches the depth limiting tip.

Regarding claims 4, 10, 19 and 22, welding yields a product by process claim and is given limited weight for patentability. Further, once the tip is welded, the stop limitation of the base is structurally irrelevant.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 15, 16 and 18 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

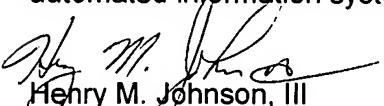

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
